EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES SHOP

WELCOME TO MONSPETITS

Who am I?

My name is Lou and I am a mom of three, a journalist and an early childhood education teacher. Becoming a mother changed my perspective of the world and I discovered a completely new way of living, educating and mothering. At MonsPetits, I have combined my two great passions: education and communication, to offer you the best educational resources to find the perfect balance between learning and fun.

Why MonsPetits?

I fully understand the challenges you face every day. I know that time is limited and the current needs of childhood and parenting are very diverse. That's why I've created a wide range of ready-to-use educational resources designed to save time and enhance learning for your little ones.

Explore my store

In my shop I offer you more than 150 educational printables, carefully designed to stimulate the creativity and cognitive development of children. Each material is created with love and with the specific needs of families and educators in mind.

Free resources

I love sharing knowledge and helping my community. That's why I also offer a section of high-quality free printables.

My thoughts on education

I believe in a dynamic education where children learn by exploring, moving and interacting with their environment using all five senses. That's why I design printables that can be manipulated and are interactive, promoting active and fun learning. I also encourage connecting with nature and the environment, creating resources that awaken curiosity and connection with the world around us.

Join my community

With over 212,000 followers on Instagram and a blog with 50,000 monthly visits, MonsPetits is a vibrant and supportive community. Here, you will not only find resources, but also support and a space to share your experiences and learn from other moms, dads, families and educators.
